THE LAST SAD RITES.

An Honored Citizen Yesterday Died to Rest by Loving Hands.

The funeral of the late Dr. Charles Wardle was largely attended yesterday afternoon, about 230 members of fraternal Orders joining in procession.

It was one of the largest and one of the most impressive funerals that has taken place in this city for many years.

The ceremonies at the grave were of touching character, and revealed the esteem in which Dr. Wardle was held by the various brotherhoods to which he belonged.

The pallbearers were John T. Martin and A. H. Thompson, representing Mason Lodge No. 342, F. A. M.; Allen A. Edmonds and Simon Nelson, from the Oddfellows; J. W. Piper, from the P. O. S. A.; J. C. Rains and John L. Chamberlain, from the K. of P. and Theo. Lowry, from the A. O. U. W.

At the conclusion of the ritualistic services at the cemetery, the Rev. W. O. Cochrane of the Central Presbyterian Church, invoked the benediction of the Master, when slowly the large assembly with, leaving the mortal remains of a beloved son, brother, husband and honored citizen to rest beneath the lovely greenward of a glorious springtime—typical of the resurrection that awaits his immortal body.

Dr. Wardle appears to have made comfortable provision for those dependent upon him, his investments for life insurance and endowments setting some $750.

His family will receive from the Royal Arcanum $3,000; A. O. U. W. $3,000; Equitable Life Insurance Co. $1,000; Prudential $1,000, which, with the sum that will be paid by the Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias, P. O. S. A. and the Oddfellow's Funeral Aid Association, will approximate that amount.

R. G. DUN & CO.'s trade review for the past week says:

Prices of commodities are this week, on the whole, the lowest of which there is any record, having declined 1.2 per cent. in March, and averaging 11.8 per cent. lower than a year ago, so that more than a third of the decrease in volume of all payments is due to decline in prices of things consumed.

All of which reminds us—

Two journeymen carpenters were looking at BROWNING & CO.'s window display of $1 shirts on Saturday last.

"Well," said one, "that's mighty cheap."

"Yes," replied his companion; "but where the Devil are you going to get the dollar? If they were 10 cents apiece I couldn't buy one."

ENGLISH agriculturists are not satisfied with their experience of Free-trade.

A correspondent in The Mark Lane Express of January 8th,

Mr. JAMES HUNT, 12 Hampton Park, Bristol, wrote:

If we are to compare Nation with Nation we can prove that American Protectionist artisans are earning and saving more money than English Free-traders are.

The writer concludes his communication with the following significant paralel:

A FALSE PROPHET.
Some of Cobden's assertions that converted Peel and Gladstone!

Land would not be driven out of cultivation by the repeal of the Corn Laws.

Land owners fearing to lose their Free-Trade from Free-Trade fear from 30 to 50 per cent.

In a country growing in population and advancing in prosperity, land always increases in value and without any help from abroad.

The land of England would produce 25,000,000 qrs. of wheat per annum.

We might as well doubt that we have natural protection of 10s. 6d. per qr. in the shape of carriage abroad.

"We might as well doubt that we have natural protection of 10s. 6d. per qr. in the shape of carriage abroad." Not a single name on earth has followed our example, and we are heavily taxing our goods in return for a free market here.

NASHVILLE, TENN., March 6th, 1863.—The Hon. J. C. BREWER, to the Gentlemen: It gives me exceeding pleasure to speak of your Antisepsic, as I consider it the best medicine ever invented for the cure of disease. My old servant Albert, who is 72 years old, was very ill with a fever, and I could do nothing but trust to Dr. Garling, who gave him every attention, but he could not cure him. I had no hope, and the only thing that could be done was to make him comfortable until the end. I then sent him to Dr. Garling, who gave him your Antisepsic, as it seemed to be performing a miraculous cure. He took it three times a day, and in regular doses every three days and the fever began to decrease from the first dose, and a few days after he was perfectly well again. In three days he was sitting up and in a few days he was walking about. He is now in full health and his strength very fast. I condescendingly believe it saved the old man's life. Repectfully yours, J. C. BREWER, No. 5 Noel Block.

In the discussion of "free raw materials" an important provision of the McKinley Law has been forgotten.

Mr. MCKINLEY, in a speech in the House on May 7th, 1890, in answer to a question by Mr. SPRINGER, said: "It applies to anything which manufacturers choose to import for purposes of manufacture. If my friend wants to engage in the manufacture of cloth, and he wants free wool, he can get within 1 per cent. of his free wool and engage in the manufacture under this provision of the law, and the tire export trade is open to him if he takes the foreign market better than the home market." (See Tariff Law page 100, section 25.)

An investigation shows that JOHN V. MCKNIE has failed to account for at least $200,000 of Gravesend bonds, some of which have been disposed of illegally by the Democratic vote-buyer and general booder.

R. G. DUN & CO.'s trade review for the past week says:

Prices of commodities are this week, on the whole, the lowest of which there is any record, having declined 1.2 per cent. in March, and averaging 11.8 per cent. lower than a year ago, so that more than a third of the decrease in volume of all payments is due to decline in prices of things consumed.

MADGE RESTS.

Counsel For the Defense Will Outline Their Plan.

They Will Claim That Col. Breckinridge Did Not Ruin

The Plaintiff and New Lawyer Battled to Show She Had Many Children by Him—The Rodes Contract Never Fulfilled; She Owns the Money.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Col. Breckinridge and Attorney Ben Butterworth, were late in arriving in the circuit court, not appearing until after the roll call of jurors and until after Miss Pollard, with face very pale, but apparently healthy, had waited several minutes in her seat. The two heads of the defendant and his leading lawyer were bent together in a brief consultation as Miss Pollard walked around to the witness stand.

Mr. Butterworth began by inquiring if Miss Pollard had the contract with James Rodes, which he implied had been given to Rodes. There never had been a settlement, but in 1885 she had given him a note for three times the amount he had advanced for her schooling. He had never paid Mr. Rodes back, "but I have money to help anybody anything," he said. Their correspondence had continued after she came to Washington. Mrs. Dr. Mary Logan had not recognized her when they first met in Cincinnati, but then she was fully informed.

Miss Pollard went on to explain about that meeting when Mr. Butterworth cautioned her that she must not wander from the subject, protesting that he was anxious to treat her with perfect fairness.

"Please your pardon, Mr. Butterworth, but the reason you treat me fairly and I am very grateful. I am so full of things I want to tell you, I can't keep them back."

There was a short little tilt between Lawyers Butterworth and Wilson over the answering of questions after this, which Judge Bradley answered by deprecating that he was not obliged to answer a question just in the form desired by the examiner.

Back to the autobiography in the New York World, came Mr. Butterworth's objection. Mr. Wilson: "That's all right, but I am not obliged to answer a question just in the form desired by the examiner."

"What was the fact about your adopting the name of Breckinridge?" asked Mr. Butterworth.

"When I first used the name, Mr. Breckinridge talked to me over, he said I might use the name, and I had my card plate made with it in 1889 or '90," was the answer in explanation of the statement in the newspaper article. "I am very weary this morning, and hardly able to go on."

Nevertheless, the plaintiff continued to insist on the name, for when she had been asked about the trunk she had at Dr. Street's in Cincinnati during her first confinement and Mr. Butterworth read from his manuscript, she insisted that she should give her undivided attention before she would say a word. The defense had laid by the defense upon the description of this trunk, which seems to be important to their case.

"That's all, Miss Pollard," said Mr. Butterworth, to the surprise of the court. The trial in the big courtroom Ellis disappeared through the side door, her attorneys remarking that they had no questions to her. Then said Mr. Carlisle: "The plaintiff rests her case here."

The plaintiff had been under cross fire for two days and over during which every phase of her case had been reviewed from every light, but her attorneys did not consider it necessary to strengthen or explain any of her statements by re-direct examination. They had in reserve other witnesses and affidavits, but these were not called.

There was a rustling in the Breckinridge camp of conversation and documents, after which Attorney Butterworth asked for a few moments for his side for consultation and the defendant, his son Deaha, and five attorneys, took out through the door by which Miss Pollard had entered.

"The delegation from Kentucky returns for conference," remarked a gentleman, who has attended political conventions.

The Breckinridge forces were in representation twenty men, including Col. John T. Sims, the Lexington (Ky.) law partner of Col. Breckinridge, a short, pale man with light mustache, partly bald head and spectacles, faced the jury to outline the defense.

While the case was technically one for damages, he promised, he said, it included a wider scope.

"I am authorized by the defendant to say," he said, "and it will be corroborated by his solemn oath, that he did not seduce her; it was never mentioned to him that she had ever had any child, except the stilling of this suit last April, nor did he ever under any circumstances make any promise of marriage to her."

The defense did not intend, he said, to condemn whatever was wrong in the relations of the two, and it was only by the truth that defendant wanted to be judged.

BRADFORD, Pa., March 22.—After a dinner at which the united press is unable to invite William H. Harrison, L. The two had been baited by violent snow storms, which have seriously interfered with travel.

PRENDERGAST.

The Chicago Mayor's Assassins. Due to Friday, a Supercross Having Been Fired.

OTSEGO, N.Y., March 22.—The supreme court had adjourned a supersession in the case of Peter Eugene Prendergast, who is to be hanged in Clinton Friday for the murder of Mayor Carter H. Harrison.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Prendergast trembled with fear and could not speak for a minute when the news from the outside world was broken to him in his cell. From his pallid lips at last came the question:

"Is it really true?" Then he added: "If it is true then I am astonished. There is no justice in such a decision. Have you got the documents? Let me see them." The warden said: "Well, I am not afraid to die. I have the grace of God, and can quit life without the assistance of priests."

When the jailer searched him and took away even his lead pencil, which he had written with, he exploded in impatience. Prendergast protested vigorously, saying: "I shall need that if I am going to die. I have some serious things to write about."

"The decision is such a sudden surprise to me," said C. S. Darrow, one of the two defense lawyers. "I do not know what to say anything, except that we shall at once apply to the governor for a reprieve or a commutation of sentence."

PANIC AMONG SCHOLARS.

Seven Children Jump from Fourth-Story Window, and Are Not Fatally Injured.

CHICAGO, March 22.—The four-story public school building in South Elmhurst caught fire shortly before noon yesterday. A boy was severely injured. Several of the panic-stricken pupils, surrounded by smoke and fire, took the desperate chance of jumping from the third and fourth-story windows to escape what seemed to be an inevitable fate, and were probably but probably not fatally injured.

The injured children, most of whom had a leg, arm or shoulder broken, are: Esther Burdo, Ella Sager, Nowell Simmons, Percy Bradley, Lucy Hayes, Carrie Johnson, also Frank Jackson, Freeman, and Samuel Mack, Freeman.

The remainder of the children, who retained enough composure to listen to the pleadings of their teachers and the firemen, were marched through the thickening smoke to safety.

All the injured are at a late hour reported doing well.

PLUMVILLE.

Andrew Burgle died near our place of residence at 8:30 P.M. yesterday evening. After a short illness, during which he was unable to speak or recognize members of the family except for a short time, and then he became totally unconscious and remained in that condition up to his death.

He was born in New York City and was 76 years and 15 days old, having been born in Markham, Europe, Feb. 26, 1823. He came over to America and settled in Ohio in 1840.

He was engaged in shoemaking and mercantile business in Ohio for a number of years, and then came to Mason County Oct. 1, 1862, 1863, and 1864. During his life on our farm, his aged wife, six daughters and three sons survive him. His remains were interred in the Mayville Cemetery, where he is resting in peace.

ANDREW BERBERICH, a carpenter fell seventy feet from the Louisville bridge, and may die.

The C. and O. Road is making a record, remarkably free from accidents of late, and much of this absence of that sort of trouble is attributed to the new block system that is now in use on that line. Especially satisfactory is the passenger service, which is of late receiving special attention.

In his Sunday sermon at Lexington Rev. E. L. Southgate, Methodist, protested against the St. Patrick procession. As a taxpayer he felt it was not right to bring out the fire department, police force, etc., desecrating the American Sabbath. The Rev. gentleman seems to forget that in Lexington St. Patrick is a "bigger" man than Uncle Sam.

Vanceburg Vigilantes.

A special from Vanceburg says the town is aroused over an indignity offered the City Marshal.

Jeff Smith, brother of Councilman Dave Smith, resisted arrest, and tore the Marshal's badge from the coat of Deputy Marshal Little Plummer and stamped on it. He was finally taken to the jailhouse with the assistance of Judge Brewer.

Alexander and Frank, two boys, had threatened Smith, who came out of the house with an open knife in his hand.

After Smith was arrested "Sock" Parker fired two shots at Alexander Lawson in a vain endeavor to capture him.

Citizens afterwards caught him.

BARGAINS IN Clocks. If you need a Clock and a good one go to Murphy the Jeweler. A great reduction in price of Iron Clocks, Onyx Clocks and Wood Clocks. Successor to Hopper & Murphy.

It must be a good article that will induce a man to go forty miles to get it. E. R. Sweetman of Fairfax Station, says a party came forty miles to his store for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and bought a dozen bottles. "The remedy is a great favorite in this vicinity," he says, "and has performed some wonderful cures here."

It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping-cough. For sale by Theo. C. Power, Druggist.
